GEOLOGY AND ASTRONOMY CLASSES

The Geology of the Gettysburg Battlefield

Tuesday, February 11th 10:00 -11:30am

Many of you probably have visited the Gettysburg Military Park and may have studied the strategy of both the Union and Confederates in trying to win this battle. How many of you have thought about how the lay of the land and the underlying rocks played a role in the battle? Why are there ridges and hills on the battlefield. Why was the famous Union "fish hook" developed where it was? Devil's Den is one of the most famous sites on any battlefield in the country and how did that form? Answer all of these questions plus more great information.
